CERTIFIED SEED IS FOR SALE BY LOCAL C. OF C.

SEED TO BE SOLD WITHOUT PROFIT

County Agent W. H. Upchurch Gives Data Concerning Project's Value to Farmers

As the sale each spring of certified seed at cost price by the Chamber of Commerce of Canyon to the farmers of the district has become of major importance to the farmers of this section, W. H. Upchurch, County Agent, who purchases the seed and who is well acquainted with the needs of this district, has prepared the following article concerning this project for the information of those interested.

Mr. Upchurch says:

"We now have on hand our 1932 supply of certified seed. This seed is purchased by the county agent, direct from well known growers, with funds loaned by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and is resold to farmers of Randall County without profit to any one.

"This season we have bought the four varieties of Texas Certified grain sorghum seed from the same growers as last year. These are Dwarf Maize, Texas Blackhull Kafir, Hegari and Sumac (Red Top) Sorghum. This is being sold at $2.40 per hundred pounds.

"In addition to the regular varieties we have added this year a small quantity of Dwarf Kafir (New Mexico certified) from a grower in New Mex. Also about two tons of Wheatland Milo, (Okla. certified) from a grower near Woodward, Okla. We are fortunate to secure this seed as very little certified Wheatland is available. There is quite a bit of second or third year Wheatland being offered which is no doubt very good seed where the origin of the seed is known. However the Wheatland Milo should not be confused with the Beaver Milo which is a different grain entirely. The Beaver Milo has not shown very satisfactory yields as yet in this part of the plains. We are selling the Dwarf Kafir and the Wheatland at $2.20 per hundred.

"There seems to be a great deal of misunderstanding as to what is meant by certified seed. In Texas seed certification is made by the State Seed and Plant Board. A representative of the board inspects all fields planted with registered seed on which certification is applied for. If on inspection the fields are found free from mixture and the grower meets certain other regulations he is given certification for the amount of seed threshed from these fields. These growers must be men of good reputation who are considered absolutely honest by the State board. Texas certified seed must be sold with two tags on the bags; one of them being a white tag showing the germination and percentage of inert matter, such as broken seeds, etc., as well as weed seed and other foreign seeds found in the sample. The other tag which is always red must show the growers name, where the seed is grown, and the year grown, as well as the name of the variety.

"In New Mexico the certification tag is also a red tag and is fastened to the container with a lead seal. You do not buy certified seed in Texas or New Mexico unless it is sold under a red tag. In Okla., the label is a yellow tag which contains about the same data as the other states require.

"It pays to plant certified seed of the Grain Sorghums, even in times of low prices because the cost of the seed is the smallest single item of cost in producing a crop and will make more difference in return from the crop than any similar investment in production costs. It is not unusual for certified seed to yield as much as 20 per cent more than common seed. There is also a big difference in the harvesting of a crop of even height over one containing many hybreds which is uneven in height.

"Seed grown from certified seed will make very good planting seed the second year if no mixtures are allowed to bloom in the field. New Grain Sorghums are being developed from time to time. These are being tried by the various experiment stations and are not recommended unless they are found to be adapted to the region.

"This year many farmers are likely to plant cheap seed because of a shortage of funds with which to buy good seed. This is likely, in many cases, to be very expensive economy.

"Buy certified seed of proven varieties."

News Gets Famous Cook for School Here June 7-10

The News is very fortunate in obtaining Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, famed for her southern cooking and for her dietetics, to coach the Canyon News First Annual Cooking School here June 7, 8, 9 and 10th.

Mrs. Ihrg understands the economy of practical, everyday cooking, she knows how to save on the grocery bill without cutting out nourishing foods, how to make a meal inviting at small cost. She is cook, bio-chemist, dietician and instructor all in one.

The women of Canyon are at liberty to ask questions at any time during the classes and to clarify points about which they may be in doubt. It is Mrs. Ihrig's aim to make her school a friendly get-together and during her nine years' experience as an instructor she has succeeded admirably in this point. First of all, she knows cooking, for her mother was one of the finest cooks in Harrison County, Missouri. She knows home cooking for she is a wife and mother. She understands the basic principals of preparing foods by actual research.

P-P. H. SOCIETY WITHIN $8,000 MUSEUM GOAL

CONTRIBUTIONS MADE BY OUT OF STATE PEOPLE.

Ex-Students of W. T. Are Now Assisting in Raising Money For the Museum.

The Panhandle-Plains Historical Society is within $8,000 of its goal of $25,000 which must be raised by July 1st in order that the state appropriation of $25,000 may be saved to Northwest Texas and to Canyon.

Contributions have been made by persons living in almost all parts of Texas, California, Illinois, Alabama and Iowa. The largest single contribution made to date is $1,000. Twenty-six people have contributed to the fund and fifty others outside of Randall county have contributed.

President T. D. Hobart and the members of the Board of Directors, together with Professor L. F. Sheffy, the members of the Building Committee and the members of the Auxiliary building Committee made up of the college faculty, will carry on a final intensive drive to save the museum for the Panhandle.

A large number of ex-students are now assisting. W. L. Wallace of muleshoe was the first ex-student to pledge himself to raise $25.00 for the project. It is believed that at least one hundred ex-students will do the same within the next month, and get the money into the hands of the Society by the first of June.

The building of the museum is no longer the interest of a few people, according to the visitor's book. Nearly one thousand men, women and children have been through the museum since April 1. According to Mr. L. F. Sheffy, everyone of these has been intensely interested in its material in spite of the fact that the room is crowded and things cannot be displayed to an advantage.

If the money is raised, the museum will furnish Canyon's largest building operation for this year and actual construction will begin the first of September or before.

NEARLY TWO INCHES RAIN SINCE FRIDAY

1.60 INCHES FALL TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Good Rains Will Pull Wheat Out Of Slump and Make Possible Season For Row Crop.

General rains over the Panhandle broke the prevailing drouth of the spring which has greatly damaged the wheat crop. From Friday until yesterday a total of 1.93 inches of moisture fell in Canyon, and the rainfall is reported to be equally that much all over the county.

The rainfall of Friday amounted to .33 of an inch.

Tuesday night was .11 of an inch, followed by .54 of an inch Wednesday morning and .95 yesterday afternoon.

These rains were the first general moisture for the Panhandle for several months, and will insure wheat all over this section. The moisture is sufficient to provide excellent grass and the farmers will now be able to plant the big row crop average which they are planning.

Fourteen Deer Are Given Home In the Palo Duro Canyon

Fourteen Virginia deer will be released in the Palo Duro Canyon today, coming from the Kerrville fish hatcheries as a gift of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission. Land owners are pledged to protect the deer, and heavy penalties may be imposed upon any who should kill any of the deer.

The gift of the deer comes as a result of a visit of the Commission here last week. Gus Scheiner of Kerrville looked at the Palo Duro and proclaimed it to be the native haunts of the deer. He urged that the commission place deer and other game here. Land owners had previously set aside 90,000 acres as a game preserve, and are pledged to protect the game. Turkey will be placed here this fall by the Commission and other game will follow.

J. J. Dent, director of state preserves for the Commission, brought the deer here by truck.

Gene Howe of Amarillo is a member of the Commission.

Many city stores report that their country business has picked up the past months. In other words, it looks like people were more and more inclined to trade away from home. Happy people come to Canyon; Canyon people go to Amarillo; Amarillo people go to Dallas; Dallas people go to St. Louis; St. Louis people go to Chicago; Chicago people go to New York; New York people go to Paris. This is given as an illustration as to how people think that by going away from home they can do a little better, and in too many instances the illustration is literally true. Never before has the local merchant needed the local business as he does now. His taxes and his support largely makes it possible for local government to exist. Take away the support of local business men and only wreck and ruin face the local city government and the local school system. Every dollar spent away from home makes it just so much harder for local business men to exist. If all business in Canyon were wiped out, there would be no town, and those who have been spending their money away from here would then realize how foolish they have been to assist in wrecking this municipality. Let's trade at home and help build Canyon rather than some other town.

Texas 254 counties. Each has a complete set of officers. Each county has at least one city, with a complete government, and most of the counties have several city governments In addition there are many, many school districts in each county, run independently. All of this adds to the expenses of government. Consolidation of counties, and especially consolidation of local offices will help the tax payers. At the same time, more efficiency may be expected when there is one man responsible for a job, rather than scattering the responsibility among several, any number of whom may pass the buck with the result that the job will likely not be done. The taxpayers are scrutinizing their tax bills and wondering whether or not they are getting their money's worth for the cost of their government. It is a healthy condition when the taxpayer asks what his money is being spent for, and whether it is buying anything worth while.

Before America will be able to to rid itself of petty criminals—the kind who have been breaking into homes and stores in Canyon—it must wipe out the patterns being followed by this class in the personage of the big gangsters and racketeers. The suggestion has been made that these gangsters be declared outlaws, and under an old statute of the United States, it becomes the duty of citizens to shoot them down on sight as a menace to the public welfare. Most of this class in the cities are well known to the police. They escape arrest through their organization, and through various means of corruption. So long as these examples are before the young men of America, little relief may be expected in the attempt to check the petty crime wave.

The State will receive the valuable services of a good man with the appointment of Judge A. B. Martin to the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals.

Judge Martin is one of the most distinguished lawyers in the State of Texas. During his services on the commission of the Court of Criminal Appeals he received national recognition in the wisdom of the opinions he rendered. No doubt Judge Martin will seek election for the full term, as he is filling the unexpired term of Judge Hal C. Randolph, deceased, which expires January 1st, 1933.

Many American newspaper writers are chiding the League of Nations for failing to solve the Manchurian problem. In view of the fact that the League was the original idea of that great American, Woodrow Wilson; and further be it remembered that the senate of the United States refused to allow this country to join the League, making this nation the only power which is not at this time a member, it is not in good grace for Americans to chide the League for failure to do anything.

Charles N. Shaver has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of S. M. N. Marrs, deceased. Mr. Shaver brings to the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction a rich experience of many years in the school room, and of city superintendent of public schools. Three sessions in the legislature has given him invaluable experience which will assist him very much in his new duties. Mr. Shaver will be a candidate for the full term starting January 1st. He should be elected.

Congress has started the movement to repeal 1006 obsolete laws. In spite of the recodification of Texas' laws in 1925, many old, worn-out laws slipped back into the statute books. Every state needs a house-cleaning on old laws every few years. Matter of fact, what America needs today is not more laws passed, but the revision and enforcement or the repeal of the laws on the statute books. Too many laws breeds contempt of all laws.

Tom Mooney must stay in the penitentiary in California The fourth governor of that state has turned down his appeal for pardon. When Tom killed 10 people and wounded 40 others he was a rank anarchist. He has had lots of time to think things over while in prison, and has decided he would like to be a respectable citizen. What would his victims have to say, could they speak their sentiments?

Those who lost money in worthless stocks now wish they had put it in some safe bank at a small percent of earning, or have bought something near home which they could look after. Turning your hard earned money over to the other fellow, as you do in buying stocks in some corporation, is risky business, so millions of people have found out very much to their sorrow.

Charles Schwab, head of the Steel Corporation, says there are no rich people in America today. The depression wiped out the holdings of the rich in larger proportion than it did the holdings of the middle and poor class. It would seem that all of us have our troubles, regardless of whether we are worth 10 cents or 10 million dollars.

Congress will tackle the problem this week of reducing governmental expenses in view of the fact that it looks impossible to raise much more money from taxation, the cost of operation will be cut. That is the way that every citizen is having to do—cut his expenses to match his income. All governmental agencies must follow the example of the individual.

Tom Love says that he will abide by the Democratic pledge when it is imposed in the convention, and then let his conscience be his guide as to keeping the pledge in the general election. It would seem that a lot of Democrats felt the same way about it four years ago.

The women of Randall County should keep in mind the Cooking School which will be given by The Canyon News starting June 7 and continuing until the 10th. Merchants of Canyon will co-operate in making this the biggest event for the women that has been given in Randall County.

This dust storm on Saturday is getting to be pretty old. Some things get tiresome when repeated often.

Too many people are talking when they should be listening.

Radio sets will never supplant newspapers because you can't wrap up little Willie's school lunch in a radio set.

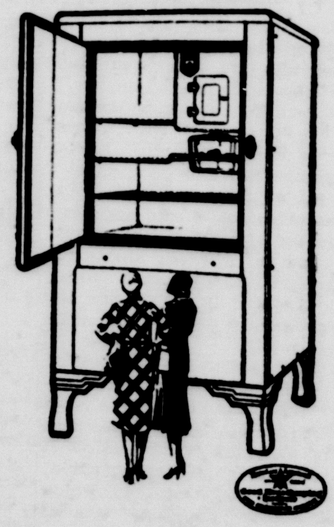
NORGE ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR WITH ROLLATOR
THE ROLLATOR
It's so simple
ONLY 3 MOVING PARTS



It would be hard to imagine a cooling mechanism simpler than the Rollator — the stout heart of the Norge Electric Refrigerator.

A roller rolls—and there's ice! That's the whole story of Norge operation.

But simplicity of operation is only one of the reasons why so many thousands select Norge. They like the lasting beauty of cabinet design and finish . . . the thoughtfully planned shelf height and arrangement...the porcelain interior with rounded corners . . . the spring hinged door to the freezing compartment . . . the conveniently placed freezing control and de-frosting switch. They like the Watervoir, always ready with a cold drink without ice.

News in Canyon 25 Years Ago

(From the files of the Canyon City News, April 26, 1927.)

Snow fall all through Saturday night. By morning some three inches had carpeted the streets and it still snowed, off and on, all of Sunday. The weather bureau at Amarillo gives the total snowfall at 8.2 inches, and from all accounts it was general throughout the Panhandle. During the entire spell, which lasted some fifty hours, the thermometer was barely below the freezing point.

Some rain fell with this snow and the estimate of The News is, that in all, we had equal to a two inch rain.

Madrigal Concert Postponed; Guest Director Is Ill

D. A. Clippinger of Chicago was to have been the guest director of the Madrigal Club's concert, which was scheduled for tonight, but Wallace R. Clark, regular director, received a telegram Saturday from Mr. Clippinger saying that illness made it impossible for him to be here.

At first it was thought that the concert might be held anyway, but when it was learned that Mr. Clippinger could be here about May 16, it was decided to postpone the concert until that date.

Mr. Clippinger is the director of the Chicago Madrigal Club and no doubt the best authority on madrigal music in the United States. In fact, it was largely through his efforts that this form of music attained the prominence it now enjoys in the United States. Madrigals are much the same as the Old English ballads and are sung a capella, that is without accompaniment.

W. T. is deeply indebted to Mr. Clippinger because it was through him that the library of the Chicago Madrigal Club, the largest library of madrigal music in America, was given to the College last fall. This was done largely in recognition of Mr. Clark's eminence as an authority on madrigal music. The local madrigal club was organized in 1918 and has been functioning ever since.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

We are expecting still larger crowds next Sunday at every service. We preached nothing but the Bible in its purity and simplicity. God's word is for man, and we must live by it, die by it, and be judged by it. The Bible only makes Christians only. The one great question before man today is, "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" Hearing, believing and obeying the Gospel is the only way to be accepted. The same act that makes man a saved man—obedience to the command of Jesus in baptism—makes him at the same time a member of Christ's Church. There is no joining process.

The subject Sunday morning will be, "Backsliding." At the evening service, the subject, "Heaven," will be discussed. You need to be present at each of these services. Then the regular services during the week to which all are welcome.

Come, where everyone is friendly.

JOHN O'DOWD,
Local Evangelist.

BUFFALO CAMP IS OPTIMISTIC OVER GAME WITH TECH

PREPARATIONS BEING MADE FOR GRID GAME SATURDAY.

Coaches Burton, Crump, and Jones assisted by three seniors, Clark, Devin and Cooper, have been putting the 1932 Buffalo football candidates through strenuous training for the past three weeks in an effort to acquaint them with the Buffalo system, as well as to master the fundamentals of the game incident to that system.

The coaches are not saying much, but there is an air of satisfaction pervading the training quarters. Never before in Buffalo history has there been the interest shown in football as is being demonstrated in spring practice this year.

There are about 30 men reporting daily for the drills, and every one of the squad is a possible football player. This is quite a contrast to the opening of the 1931 training camp. Of the 30 men reporting for practice last fall, only about 14 could be classed as possible football timber.

Good Material

"We will be pretty well off for material this fall if all of our boys get back," said Coach Burton. "But times are hard and some of them may drop out to teach or work at other employment and in that way put us up against it again," he continued.

The spring game scheduled with Tech on Buffalo Field Saturday night, April 30, has added much interest to the spring training.

Miles traveled last year, 17,796; families visited, 1,847; addresses and sermons delivered, 236; tracts distributed, 7,790; books given out, 286; Bibles, 144; worker's conferences held, 64; conversions, 57; Sunday schools organized, 4; revived, 1; visited, 52; new communities visited, 10; young people's societies organized, 2; cradle rolls, 2; home departments, 2; funerals, vacation Bible schools held, 6; evangelistic meetings conducted, 5; baptized, 12; moderated 4 congregational meetings and assisted in setting up the Presbyterian Panhandle conference.

Mud Houses, Serviceable and "Dirt" Cheap, Popular Since War

"MUD" houses, inexpensive and—according to their advocates—the equal or superior of wood and brick houses in point of comfort and durability, have attained quite a vogue since the World War.

And most of the people who live in them today claim they would not live in any other kind.

Three kinds of material are available for making earthen houses: sun-dried brick, poured earth and pise de terre. Of the three, pise de terre, or "rammed earth," best recommends itself for widespread use.

Poured earth, or "mud concrete," is mushy mud, nothing more nor less, to which chopped straw is sometimes added. The bricks are made in frames, dried for several days in the sun, then used like other building blocks.

The poured earth and sun-dried brick methods are practical only in warm climates, however, since they require guaranteed sunshiny weather for their success.

The use of pise de terre exemplifies the saying that "there's nothing new under the sun." Used in Ancient Babylon, this method was supplanted by others as time went by, to be revived in England in war time during a search for cheaper building materials. Largely responsible for the revival of pise de terre in building construction were the editorials and articles of J. St. Joe Strachey, editor of the London Spectator.

The idea spread to Sweden, then to the United States, where it found enthusiastic proponents. One of its foremost American advocates is Professor Ferdinand N. Menefee of Ann Arbor, Mich., director of research at the University of Michigan.

Being one of those unusual people who practice what they preach, the professor lives in a pise home of his construction—considered, incidentally, one of the most artistic and attractive houses in his neighborhood.

* * *

SOME of the advantages of pise de terre, according to its advocates, are:

Dirt from the cellar excavation is usually sufficient for the walls. Thus, a major proportion of the building material is available at the site, free of charge.

Earth, sifted and rammed down hard according to the formula, will sustain from 10 to 30 tons per square foot of wall. Instead of weakening with age, earth walls become more and more rocklike. Earth walls do not crack—many Peruvian rammed earth buildings, for instance, have withstood earthquakes.

Pise de terre buildings will last centuries, if they are built correctly in the first place. A house built in Washington, D. C., more than 150 years ago, is still in use.

Rammed earth walls are fireproof, watertight, and, perhaps because of their greater thickness, virtually soundproof; impenetrable to rodents and immune to the ravages of fungi, wood borers and termites, destroyers of wood. Better than any other substance, pise de terre keeps out the heat in summer and retains it in cold weather.

* * *

IT remains to be seen whether or not this type of construction will ever be adopted on a wholesale scale in the United States. But its backers claim that public interest in pise de terre is steadily increasing.

The South Carolina church shown above, of rammed earth construction, was built about 1840 and is still in excellent condition. Below is shown the handsome pise de terre home of Ferdinand N. Menefee of Ann Arbor, Mich., professor at the University of Michigan, and one of the outstanding advocates of the pise method.

WHAT a little advertisement can do

IF YOU ARE A MERCHANT

It can tell people about the fancy or stylish new stocks of merchandise you have just put in for Spring, Fall or Winter trade. People are always interested in knowing where they can obtain the newest and best.

It can sell that slow-moving stock on your shelves. It can help you dispose of your left-overs of seasonable goods—some of which will soon be not so seasonable.

It can increase your turnover, reduce stocks on hand and add to your profits and bank account.

IF YOU SELL SERVICE

It can tell people what you have to offer, attract customers and increase your sales and profits. Garages, Laundries, Cleaners and Dyers, Beauty Shops, Barber Shops and the like which are wise enough to advertise always get the cream in their lines of business.

IF YOU ARE A FARMER

It can help you dispose of your eggs, poultry, vegetables, fruit, hay, grain or whatever you have a surplus of. It can convert the products of your gardens or fields into ready cash. A little Advertisement will do wonders in bringing town folks—the automobile trade—to your very door to buy the fresh products you have to sell.

AND A BIG ADVERTISEMENT WILL WORK EVEN HARDER THAN THIS—

An advertisement in the Canyon News will be read by practically everyone in Randall County. Such an advertisement costs but little, but it brings big results. Try one when you have something to sell.

How to Grow Corn on Our Plains Farms

Western Farm Life.

Since the best method of planting corn is one kernel in a hill, it is a most important matter to have good seed that will germinate. Before buying the farmer should demand a sample for testing purposes. If the corn is already shelled it is impossible to test by ears, but a bulk test is easily made by taking a good representative handfull and placing it between two wet cloths which are rolled up and never allowed to dry until the corn sprouts, which it usually does in about four of five days. A good judge of corn germination can tell in about two days by closely examining the germ whether it is swelling up and starting to sprout, or if it is dead. In order to test the best germinating ears from a field run the rag doll method as recommended by the colleges is the best.

Some years ago when I was experimenting with corn in Colorado I discovered that every time I introduced new blood or made a new cross the yield increased, sometimes by as much as 20 per cent. Let it be understood that this increased yield was for the first planting after the cross had been made; but the yield of the second planting from the seed of the first planting was not nearly so good as the first, and the yield from the third planting was practically back to normal. Biologists tell us that continuous and unrestricted inbreeding makes for deterioration. Nearly every farmer saves his own seed and seldom thinks about introducing fresh blood, the consequence being that nearly all the corn in the country becomes too inbred and slowly but surely commences to run out. This process is so gradual as to be hardly perceptible and consequently attracts little attention, but we often hear a farmer say: "My corn is not nearly as good as it used to be; I guess I had better try some other kind."

In some of the states east of us the seed-corn men have started the idea of providing the farmers every year with seed corn crossed the year before with another variety in order that they may reap the benefit of these increased yields. Since they advertise it and sell it as "hybrid" seed we will call it that, but it is not really a hybrid; is is only a cross, for in order to make a hybrid corn it would have to be crossed with some other species, such as cane or some sorghums for instance. Since farmers who buy this so-called hybrid corn obtain increased yields, dealers are able to charge an advanced price for it.

In order not to produce an unsightly, inferior looking corn the breeders mate two different varieties of the best standard types which are somewhat similar in color and general appearance, and the result is usually a very attractive looking seed corn. When the farmer invests in this kind of seed he has to buy fresh seed every year if he wants to keep up the same high yield, for if he uses the seed from his own crop it commences to go back to ordinary production again. The only other way is to make his own cross every year for seed corn and raise it himself. This is not so complicated as we might suppose bectuse corn has its tassels which produce the pollen, and the silks which receive it, all in the open. At the end of every ear is a big bunch of silks because every grain on the cob needs one silk to fertilize it. The pollen from the tassels blows over the field and alights on the silks. Each silk absorbs its infinitesimal grain of pollen dust, passes it back from cell to cell in its sap until it reaches the germ of the grain of corn to which it is attached and thus fertilizes it. The blanks which we find on some ears of corn are where the grain thru some mischance failed to become fertilized and no grain grew. This is a much simpler process than the fertilization of small grain because the organs involved in this class of plants are mostly under cover inside the husks.

In order to make a cross for the production of this hybrid seed as the dealers call it, it is necessary to choose two varieties which tassel and pollinate at the same time; but if for instance an eighty-day corn is to be mated with a one hundred day corn, the latter would have to be planted nearly twenty days earlier than the former in order that they would both be ready for fertilization at the same time.

In order to demonstrate how this crossing is done, we will say that the breeder chooses Minnesota 13 to cross with Pride of the North. The former we will designate as M, the latter as P. He plants two rows of M and one of P and keeps on in this sequence until the whole seed patch is planted. He plants only one row of P to every two of M because the pollen from one row of corn is more than sufficient for pollenizing two rows, in fact, some breeders use one for three rows or more, but in our region where dry weather often devitalizes the pollen it is best to have plenty of it.

The next part of the program comes later when the tassels are giving off polleen. The tassels are then all cut off. Pollen from the tassels blows over to the M corn and fertilizes it. Then we have all the M corn fertilized from the pollem of the P corn, and we know that this is so because all the tassels of the M corn were cut off. The corn that is gathered off the P rows is still P corn because it has been fertilized by its own pollen.

In choosing the site for a corn field it is well to remember that pollen may blow quite a distance in windy weather and the pollen from a neighbor's field may mix with our own if the fields are in line as regards the direction of the prevailing winds.

Enough seed corn can be raised on one-half acre to plant more than one hundred acres, but a larger seed patch is necessary for those who plant a pure bred corn and practice selection.

Those who object to using hybrid seed corn can still increase their production to some extent by introducing new blood of the same variety from a distance, and if possible planting where the soil is different. It is a good way to trade seed with some other farmer whose corn meets the requirements, half his seed for half of yours. When seed corn for some reason has to be imported from another state it is better to obtain it from the North than the South. The cooler climate induces an adaptation which expresses itself in a shorter growing period, while a warmer climate makes for a longer period and larger ears. Besides the shorter season we also aim for these larger ears and in spite of the shorter growing period we can still obtain them by selection. In the last twenty years we have increased the average size of our ears of corn by one-third.

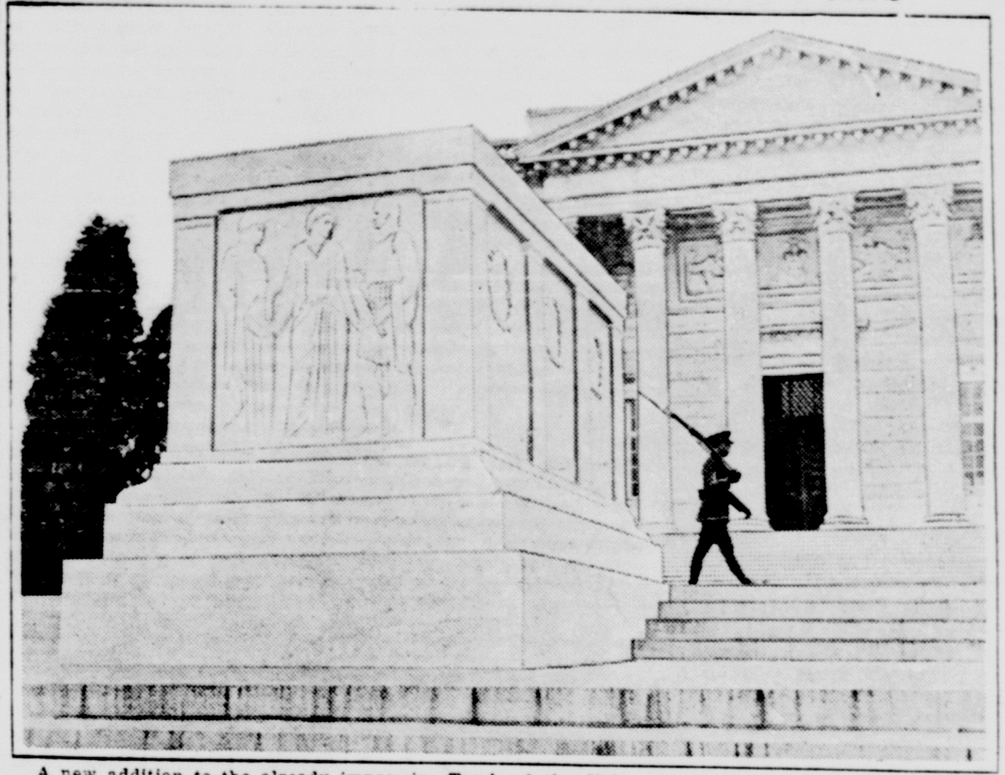
New Addition to Unknown Soldier Tomb



A new addition to the already impressive Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va., is this new marble monument, recently disclosed to public view. Besides the figures and wreaths shown, the new monument carries a design that commemorates "peace, victory and valor"—a memorial to the nation's war dead.

Kidnaped Girl Returned

After being abducted and held by kidnapers for two days, Hilda Brodsky, above, 9-year-old Wilmington, Del., girl, was returned to her parents unharmed. The girl's return was effected by Rev. Joseph M. Pugliese, below, South Philadelphia priest, with whom the kidnapers negotiated. Without payment of ransom, the kidnapers sent the girl to the priest, who turned her over to police authorities.

Results Show Fallowing Unprofitable.

Although fallowing, a time-tested aid in dry-land farming, increased yields of grain crops at the U. S. Dry Land Field Station at Big Spring, Texas, the increases were not sufficient to warrant fallowing as a general practice, experiments there for the last 15 years show. Fallowing did not increase yields of cotton.

Results of the work of the station for the last decade and a half have been summarized in Circular 202-C, Agronomic Work of the Big Spring, Texas, Field Station, 1915-1929, just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Cotton is the principal crop of this region. The average rainfall is only 18.77 inches, but the area is relatively free from the boll weevil. Mebane cotton was found best suited for the region. It does not yield quite so heavily as some other varieties, but it has a higher linting percentage and it is more storm proof. In 10-year tests Mebane averaged 908 pounds of seed cotton to the acre; Lone Star averaged 922; Acala, 898 and Trice, 821.

The average yields of corn, wheat, beans, and millet are too low to warrant cultivation, the circular says. Other findings of the experiments are: Grain sorghums are well adapted there, and milo produces the highest average yields of grain; kafir yields less grain but more forage; feterita is adapted for a catch crop in late planting; sumac and honey sorgos were the heaviest producing forage crops; and sudan grass was best for pasture.

Fall and winter plowing or listing was generally better than spring plowing or listing. Dwarf Yellow milo, Reed kafir and Spur feterita were the highest yielders in their groups.

Copies of Circular 202-C may be obtained from the office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., upon request.

1931-32 Has Held Much for CHS Students

When school was opened, fifty students reported for registration in the Senior class of the Canyon High School. Of these twenty-six were girls, and twenty-four were boys.

On the 5th of October the High School faculty entertained the Senior Class with a forty-two party in the grade school gymnasium. Games of forty-two were played throughout the evening, and the entertainment was enjoyed by everyone.

On November 11th, Ruth Cox, a member of the Senior Class, was crowned football queen of C. H. S.

The carnival king and queen, Edwin Dutton and Nannie Archer, were crowned in the follies held March 17th, in the high school auditorium. Both of these were representatives and members of the Senior Class.

It is a custom for the Senior Class to take a sneak day away from school and enjoy a day on a picnic. This day was taken April 6th, and a day of picnic and fun was spent at the Methodist encampment.

"Whoofenpoof," a three act comedy was presented in the high school auditorium, April 21, by the Senior Class.

The Seniors have had a very successful and enjoyable year in Canyon High School.

You don't have to own a radio to be a good story teller.

FRESHMAN

Although the Freshman have only been members of C. H. S., since last September they have been so active and willing to learn they have made a real place for themselves among the student body.

Robert Orton as president with the aid of vice-president Wilson and secretary Schmitz has piloted this band through the year.

The class has the distinction of being the largest class in school, 90 being enrolled.

Marge Mae Harrison was their nominee for the football queenship and for carnival queen. She ranked third in the football race.

Two freshman, Johnny Wilson and Wade Johnson filled substitute positions on the football team.

Next year these Fish will be full fledged Sophomores and if they have the luck of getting Miss Goodrich, Mr. Fox and Miss Foster back as sponsors they hope to spend another profitable as well as enjoyable year.

JUNIOR

The activities of the Juniors during the past year have been many and varied. The first activity of the year was a hayride given by the juniors and the seniors. The students rode out to Knight's pasture where they ate supper.

On October 30, the juniors had a Hallowe'en party in the High School gym. Fortunes were told and games were played. Refreshments consisted of apples and candy.

Before school was out for the holidays, the juniors had a Christmas tree. Nothing that cost over 15 cents could be bought for a fellow school mate. After the fun of the period was over, the gifts were put in a box to be put on the White Christmas Tree.

The junior box supper was given February 23, with Mr. Stroud as auctioneer. The money gained from this was used to support the carnival queen.

The class also had a brief fishing trip on Hurst's land.

MISS CLARK TALKS

Miss Grace Clark talked to the Junior home rooms Wednesday on her trips for the last three summers to Tennessee.

Miss Clark attended the Peabody College at Nashville from where she received her degree last summer.

She gave a clear description of the general location and surroundings of the city of Nashville. Many interesting pictures were shown of the cities including that of the Peabody campus which contains fourteen buildings.

C. H. S. Pupil Wins First In Jr. Declamation

Vernelle Hancock, a pupil of the sixth grade of the elementary school won first place in junior girls' declamations at the district Interscholastic League meet held last week-end. Vernelle spoke "Laddie." She is a speech student of Margaret Benge, C. H. S. '30.

Rosa Cash a sophomore girl placed second in Senior girls contest.

The debate team, Kathryn Robinson and Maxine Wallace, entered the semi-finals.

SOPHOMORE

At the first class meeting in 1932 the Sophomores began their years work with a determination to make their class outstanding. The officers elected for the first semester were president, Armor Lee Greenfield; vice-president, Alton Braseul; secretary-treasurer, Laura Ferne Brian; reporter, Gailen Porter. Led by these officers and sponsors, Miss Murrell and Mr. Barker, much work has been accomplished. In December the grade school gym was a scene of a sophomore party and a picnic is expected before the end of the year.

New officers were elected for the second-semester. They were: president, Wesley Williams; vice-president, Maxine Wallace; secretary-treasure, Pat Cochran.

The sophomore girls have been very active in basket ball, pep squad work, glee club and volley ball. Rosa Cash took second place in declamations at the district meet and she was one of the best pep squad leaders in high school. Owen Miller was elected captain of the Eagle football squad, and was one of their best guards. The queens chosen by the sophomores were Mary Dowlen, carnival queen and Armor Lee, football queen. "Scoop" Ellistan was the carnival king for '32.

With a Freshman and Sophomore year of experience these students believe they can accomplish even more in their Junior year.

OPERETTA IS PRESENTED

"The Land of Dream Come True," an operetta presented Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium, by the second grade and assisted by the fourth and fifth grades, was a decided success.

A large crowd attended and the entire program was exceptionally well presented.

The operetta was directed by Miss Addalene Strain and Misses Irene Crawford and Gladys McClanahan, grade school teachers.

MR. FOX RETURNS

Mr. Fox returns to school Monday after twelve days absence due to smallpox. His classes have been conducted during his absence by James Kennedy from the College, a fourth year chemistry major.

Mr. Fox says he is glad to be back on the job and the students are glad to see him in class again.

CHAPELS

The chapel program Tuesday was in charge of Addalene Strain and Doris Loudder.

Miss Loudder presented a junior boy, Dwain Davis; a junior girl, Vernelle Hancock; and a senior girl, Rosa Cash in a series of declamations. These young people represented Canyon public schools in the district Interscholastic League Declamation contests.

Miss Strain gave one number which was included in the "Operetta" which was presented by the third, fourth and fifth grades, April 21st, at the high school auditorium.

The chapel program Thursday was in charge of the Canyon public school band which is directed by Addaline Strain.

Several marches were played by the band. George Schmitz and Lilla Beth Burroughs each played a solo.

The band is one of Canyon public schools most active organizations and their program was enjoyed by all.

EAGLES PLACE IN MEET

Two Eagles placed in the district track meet to gain 3 points for C. H. S. This meet was won by the Amarillo Sandies. The Eagles could not do much in the short runs but proved themselves to be very longwinded. Austin Cone placed third in mile, and George Brasual took fourth. Both men will return next year.

Willard Middleton was fourth in the 880 yard run.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The graduation festivities are opened tonight at the Legion Hall when the juniors fete the Seniors with an annual banquet.

U. I. L. Tourney Closes Year for C. H. S. Net Men

Clarence Wooten, Canyon High School singles player, was the only tennis man from that school to make a good showing. He went to the semi-finals and was eliminated by Hedley who in turn was defeated in the finals by Oklahoma Lane, the Singles winner. Wooten found no difficulty in eliminating Claude, 6-1, 6-2, and Follett, 6-1, 6-3. Hedley found it hard sledding but finally defeated Wooten, 3-6, 8-6, 4-6.

Robinson and Black, the Eagle doubles team lost to Follett after a hard fought match which ended in 2-6, 6-1, 4-6. Follett played the tournament winners, Amarillo, their hardest match losing to them, 10-8, 7-5.

Both the girls' teams were eliminated by Pampa, Mabel Schmitz lost the singles, 6-2, 6-4, and Overton and Plaster lost the doubles, 6-2, 6-3.

This tournament closes a successful season for the boys. Wooten completed his second year and qualified for a letter by winning 9 out of 10 matches.

Lockhart and Thomas were next, winning 3 out of 5 matches. This is their first year to letter.

Robinson and Black ranked third with 3 games won and 3 lost. This is Robinson's third letter year, and Black's first.

Stroud lettered, winning 2 matches out of 4.

EDITORIAL

We are beginning the end of a year. Has your work been successful? There remain three weeks of school in which to finish all your year's efforts. Don't let the spring fever keep your last lap from being a sprint.

These last weeks will be spent in review preparing you for the final exams and the ultimate promotion on graduation.

Simply because you have a good average grade that will pass you, don't let up now. A "C" pupil should not be content if he is capable of making an "A" or a "B". Even the "A" pupil should not let up, but should continue to do his excellent work. Even though the old maxim of "Onward and Upward" is often spoken with a smile, it is a good ideal to follow. Let us make the last three weeks the best of the year.

We Hope We Helped

There are more old people in the United States today than there were a decade ago, according to the director of the United States Census.

PERHAPS one contributing factor is the assistance given to science, surgery, medicine and the plain everyday standard of living by the electric light and power industry.

WE like to think we have contributed toward lengthening the span of life—as well as to know that we have contributed to the joys of living, what ever may be the span of an individual's life.

MORE than forty-seven and one-half million children under nineteen years of age are experiencing benefits, made possible by electrical development, unknown to their parents at the same age, and which were not even dreamed of by their grandparents.

AND the greatest development of the industry has been during the last decade, when it has been able to furnish more service to more people than ever in its history.

We are Growing too, in our Ability to serve you.

In order to meet this situation the Harvester Company offers farmers purchasing machines after this date, a definite price guaranty on varying quantities of their wheat, corn, and cotton. If market price quotations for these products do not reach the guaranteed prices at the time payment becomes due on notes given and maturing this year, farmers buying machines included in this special offer will receive a credit equal to the difference.

Many of our customers we know will welcome this announcement. Come in and let us explain the details of the Harvester Company's unique guaranty. Let us show you the machines on which it applies and tell you just how to take advantage of it in equipping your farm at once with the new cost-reducing machines that you need.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

At Their Present Rate of Decline, the Bush Leagues Are Doomed to Extinction By 1950 Unless Measures Are Applied Immediately

BY PHILIP MARTIN

IF the Moses who led the children of Israel out of the wilderness were to stage a 1932 comeback, he could get work with the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. The N. A. of P. B. L., a society name for "bush" leagues, is looking for just such a leader.

There were 38 organized baseball leagues, besides the National and American major leagues, in operation 20 years ago. Today, if all escape further difficulties at the start of the new campaign, the number totals 17

Twenty-one have died, passed out, ceased to exist, in 20 years. At this rate, 1950 will see only the majors active in the industry, unless resuscitative measures are applied immediately The situation is acute.

* * *

ON Branch Rickey of the National, Billy Evans of the American and Judge W. G. Bramham of the Piedmont leagues has been pushed the task of reviving the minors. Rickey is head of the St. Louis Cardinals and founder of the world champions' vast chain store holdings in minor league baseball. Evans, former major league umpire, is general manager of the Cleveland Indians. Judge Bramham is chief executive in the Piedmont circuit and chairman of the "life-saving" committee.

Assisting these men are Warren Giles, Rochester International League club president, J. Alvin Gardner, Texas loop prexy, Joe Carr, former head of Columbus in the American Association, and Ross Harriott, president of the Terre Haute III League team.

The committee's problem concerns the present and future existence of all class B, C and D leagues and the restoration to life of several deceased members. The committee realizes that the only sure remedy is money, in large doses.

Minor league baseball never has been a means to wealth, but years ago the minors used to survive on the generosity of big-hearted civic-minded business men. Those men who annually kicked in with $100 or $200 apiece to pay off the players were held up before the community as fine, upright, public-spirited citizens. The donors usually put it down in the books as "advertising" money well spent.

Then there was a war, business ran wild, golf made dangerous inroads, depression crept in. Baseball deficits steadily grew higher. Dividends shrunk. Generosity of the business men became frazzled, then finally gave way entirely. The bush leagues folded up.

* * *

TWO roads are pointed out to the present committee. Neither is a smooth, straight road. One leads to Rickey's chain store system. The other points to a "working agreement" by which major league teams endow certain minors with money and fresh talent, with the privilege of taking back some of the talent at the close of the season.

Opponents of the chain store system see destruction of civic pride in the cities where "system" teams are installed. But proponents of the plan believe it is better to have baseball without civic pride, than to have neither.

Upon the shoulders of these men lie the task of saving the declining minor leagues from extinction. They are, above, left, Judge W. G. Bramham, chief executive in the Piedmont League and chairman of the "life-saving" committee; left, below, Branch Rickey, head of the St. Louis Cardinals, and right, Billy Evans, former major league umpire, now general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

THE MUSEUM PROJECT

As I see it, the next 60 days are fraught with great possibilities for the College. Upon the outcome of the campaign to raise some $7,500 depends the fate of perhaps the most valuable single project the institution has ever sponsored. It is doubtful if many people in and around the college fully appreciate the importance of building a house for the museum of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society.

In the first place, a good museum is an educational institution of the first magnitude. In this respect it is invaluable and the town which has one is indeed most fortunate. If our campaign shall succeed (and it must) we shall have something unique in the Southwest—something that will attract and serve students and scholars from far and near, and those of us who are near enough to use it will have an educational opportunity open to relatively few people.

In the second place, it will give our school a distinction that very few schools enjoy. It will add measureably to the prestige of the institution and therefore add to the value of every diploma and certificate we issue.

In the third place, it will give a flavor to our college atmosphere that ought to be distinctly tasteful to our students. Every college needs many things to give tone and dignity and the atmosphere of scholarship. It needs influences that entice youth with learning and that cultivate an appreciation of achievement.

In the fourth place, a museum will tie to the institution many valuable friends in all parts of the country. What we have has already demonstrated its value along this line. No institution can attain its best or serve best its own patrons which does not have an abundance of friends who believe in it and love it even to the point of sacrifice. When one gives to a cause he immediately becomes more interested in that cause. The hundreds who give to our Museum will feel a proprietry interest in it and in the college.

In the fifth place, we of the younger generations ought to feel grateful enough to those who have blazed the trail on these Plains to help erect a monument in their honor. They had courage, determination, integrity, resourcefulness, and the willingness to endure hardship. We shall do well to emulate their virtues. Let's join them—the pioneers—in erecting on our grounds the first museum building ever placed on a Texas college campus.

—J. A. HILL.

Amarillo Wins Track and Field Meet Saturday

Despite a raging sand and dust storm that lasted practically all day Saturday, the thinly-clad Amarillo Golden Sandies came thru all the field of competition to win the tenth annual District One Interscholastic League track and field meet with a total of 37 points. Les Cazzell, Amarillo High School star, carried off high point honors with a total of 15 points. He was followed closely by Caldwell of Farwell, who had amassed 11¼ points.

The blue-clad tracksters of Farwell, led by Caldwell, came in for second place honors in the meet with 20 points. The Pampa Harvesters placed third with a total of 19 points. Next came the Clarendon Bronks with 13⅓ points. Fifth place was won by the Panthers of Panhandle High School.

Friday afternoon at four o'clock the events started off with a bang when Cazzell of Amarillo came into the tape to win the first heat of the 120-yard high hurdles. After this the events began taking place at all parts of Buffalo Field. Three or four heats were run in nearly all of the track events. When the preliminaries and semi-finals were concluded about seven o'clock Friday evening, there were 68 high school boys, all of them stars of their respective schools, left to enter the final events Saturday.

Due to the raging wind and dust there were no records broken, but good time was made in nearly all of the events, especially the high and low hurdles.

The feature of the Saturday afternoon session was the rural pentathlon, which was a contest between lads from several rural schools in five events. The events included in the pentathlon are: 100-yard dash, running high jump, 12-pound shot put, hop, step, and jump, and the running broad jump. The winner of the rural events was Foster, who was representing the Price Rural School in Swisher county. Foster won first place in four of the events and second place in the other event, making a total of 23 points. He was followed by Thompson from the Washburn School, who amassed a total of 14 points. Smith of Palo Duro School placed third with 7 points, and Duncan of Sunny Hill was fourth with five points. The other lad to place in this contest was Ives from Ochiltree, who finished with four points.

Canyon Schools Win Places In District Meet

Twenty-two counties were represented in the Interscholastic League meet this year. Collegians were pushed aside; classes were dismissed; and members of the W. T. faculty with student assistants were used as judges. This is an annual event that all of the schools in the district look forward to, and attendance this year has shown a large increase over that of former years.

Lobbying is not detrimental to the people of the United States—or so the judges of debate under the direction of C. Wesley Batchelder overwhelmingly agreed with the negative defendants of the Interscholastic League question. In boys' debate, the Amarillo team, Hugh Fincher and Robert McNeill, supported the negative and won from the Hereford team, Kellor Muse and Sherman Morgan. The winning Pampa girls' team was Opal Denson and Yeda Stein; Hereford's girls' team, Zelma Ruth Shore and Ardelle Foster.

In the art contest one school furnished the winners. Phyllis Albers and Dora Miller, both of Palo Duro School at Canyon, won first and second places.

In the home economics contests, Perryton was high point school. The following were winners:

Clothing: First, Thalia Pearson, Perryton; second, Kittye Ruth Lawler, Stratford; third, Tina Mae Wright, Dimmitt; fourth, Katherine Sealey, Spearman.

Foods: First, Winne Mae Ison, Perryton; Tommie Mae Houghland, Perryton; third, Frankie Pendergraft, Spearman; fourth, Gertrude Barkley, Spearman.

In essay writing, winners were:

Class A: first, Carrie Coffee, Amarillo; second, Mary Prien, Panhandle.

The state finals will be held on May 5, 6, and 7, in Austin. The first place winners in senior declamation, extemporaneous speech, debate and Three-R contests will go from district 1.

They are:

Leigh Fischer, Amarillo, extemporaneous speech, boys.

Virginia Craig, White Deer, extemporaneous speech, girls.

Herbert Slagle, Masterson School, senior boys' declamation, rural.

Louis Smith, Amarillo, senior boys' declamation, city.

Maggie Turner, Ochiltree, Three R contest.

Winners in the typing contest under the direction of Thelma Brummett were, first, Opal Denson of Pampa; second, Norman Gipson of Dumas; and third, Malcolm Carr of Pampa.

The officials connected with the literary events were W. E. Lockhart, Director General; G. A. Finch, Director of Declamation (City Schools); R. L. Hurnter, Director of Declamation (Rural Schools); C. Wesley Batchelder Director of Debate; Guy B. Tabor, director of Extemporaneous Speech; Ada V. Clark, Director of Music Memory; Jennie C. Ritchie, Director of Essay Writing; Thelma Brummett, Typewriting Contest; Miss Marion Normington, Home Economics Contest; Miss Isabel Robinson, Art Contest; W. E. Sherman, "Three-R" Contest; and F. E. Savage, Custodian of Cups and Medals and Director of Junior Declamation.

In literary events, Amarillo and Potter County were slightly in the lead for the first and second places. Opal Denson of Pampa was high point contestant, since she alone placed in two events, girls' debate and typewriting.

"While the Interscholastic League appears to be merely for competition, its purpose is much deeper," said Director General Lockhart. "It gives an accurate check on the level of work being done in the schools. We have noticed, too, in the past few years, that this level has been higher each year no doubt because of the competitive spirit which forces the children to work harder."

Local Ministers Attend Meeting In Hereford

Rev. J. R. Sharp, Rev. F. T. Charlton and Rev. W. H. Bessire attended the spring meeting of the Presbyterian church held at Hereford Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Yearly reports from the various churches were given at this time. "It was very gratifying," said Rev. Bessire, "to note the increase in the church rolls and the gain in Sunday school attendance during the past year."

Rev. Sharp will continue to fill the pulpits of the Littlefield, Hale Center, Dimmitt and Jumbo churches, giving one Sunday a month to each. Rev. Charlton will continue to supply the Canyon pulpit and Rev. Bessire will serve as missionary over twenty-two counties in the Panhandle.

At 11 o'clock Thursday morning a memorial service was held in honor and memory of the late Rev. W. C. Kunze at which time several gave talks on his life work. A number of people of Canyon attended this service.

Mrs. O. N. Gamble and daughter, Ruth, returned Thursday from Escondido, California, where they have been the past several weeks. Mrs. Gamble's mother, Mrs. C. W. Williams, who has been ill, is much improved.

L. N. George Says—

. This rain is not raining rain to me, "It is raining students down." Had this rain not come for another three weeks both our summer and fall attendance would have dropped considerably below normal. We know of several who could not have made the grade, for their coming depended upon the amount of wheat made by them or their fellowmen. If wheat is normal and cotton prospects are also normal by the first of June our attendance will indeed be above normal.

There is another factor that vitally enters into this proposition of attendance, and that is the amount of money that will come in from the state during the next sixty days. Teachers have accepted warrants or script in lieu of cash. Not having cash, they have spent little. Hence most of their salary is in some form of paper other than greenback. Most of this is as good as greenback generally speaking, but it must be held for a while. If any reader of this has a house to rent or wants boarders and will take part payment in this script please notify your realtor of the fact. If you want to do this, you are assisting some one to go to college, may be making it possible. You are helping the town by assisting in filling up our vacant houses, and last but not least you are helping the return of prosperity. Canyon will prosper in direct proportion to the amount of catering that she does to the college prospects of this territory.

Contestants Win Places.

The Tulia dairy judging team composed of Bayard Sadler, Edward Devins, and Jack Adams was second in judging Jerseys and third in Holsteins.

Bayard Sadler was high point man in Jerseys and high individual of the contest while Edward Devins tied for first in Guernseys, was fourth in Jerseys and ranked third man in the entire contest.

A Swisher County 4-H Dairy judging team composed of Roy Burrow, Carl L. Hale and Walter Grist went to Plainview Monday and brought back third honors in the dairy judging contest.

Carl L. Hale tied for high man in Guernseys and Roy Burrow was third, Walter Grist was fourth man in Holsteins. Lamb county won first, Lubbock was second and Swisher third in stiff competition from 6 4-H teams of this section. —Tulia Herald.

Patti Only Member of Fair Sex at Banquet

In 1859 Adelina Patti made her debut at the Academy of Music in New York in "Lucia," says a writer in the Brooklyn Eagle Magazine. Not since Jenny Lind had a singer so captivated her audience. To the end of their lives many of her admirers insisted that she was the last one entitled to be called "la diva."

Twenty-five years later, in 1884, Patti again sang at the academy. To her honor a banquet was planned by a number of prominent New York men, including Judge Daly, William Steinway and Nathan Stetson. Naturally the wives of there men were expected to be present, but they virtuously refused to sit at the table with Patti, who had been divorced from her first husband, the Marquis De Caux, and married to Nicolini, the Italian tenor.

Extremely embarrassed, the gentlemen sent a committee to put the case to Mademoiselle Patti as delicately as possible, and ask her if she would consent to be the guest of themselves only. Patti consented unhesitatingly, and she was the only woman present at a party of some seventy masculine admirers, in the ballroom of the Hotel Brunswick.

Ducal Right to Biscuit Not to Be Questioned

A certain duke who had apparently a bottomless purse could not balance his accounts, or rather his steward could not. What is the use of being a duke if one has to bother about money? He had spent only what was due to his position. He was not extravagant. Oh! dear, no. He had only what a duke should have. Still, it was thought advisable to send to London for the family man of business to overhaul the household accounts.

The family man of business went down to the castle from Lincoln's Inn Fields and, after a week's work, submitted his report to the duke. Lord Willoughby de Broke tells the story in his reminiscences, "The Passing Years."

"Begging your grace's pardon," said the family man of business, "I see your grace keeps both an Italian and a French pastry cook in your grace's still room. Is not such a duplication superfluous?"

"Hang it all," exclaimed the duke, "a fellow must have a biscuit!"

Sicily in History

Greek and Phoenician colonies were established in Sicily in the Eighth century B. C. at Naxos and elsewhere. Sicily thus became divided into several states and independent cities. The tyrant Gelon a little later transferred his government to Syracuse, which became for the time the most important Greek city in Sicily. Meanwhile the Carthaginians had also made settlements in the island at Panormus, Motya and Solois. Wars between the Greeks and Carthaginians followed. In each, success favored now one side and now the other. In 383 B. C. a peace was made between the rivals. Sicily became a Roman province in 246 B. C.

Sexes Separate in Church

Dr. Thomas M. Strong, in 1842 pastor of the Old Dutch Reformed church, which stands at the intersection of Church and Flatbush avenues in Brooklyn, N. Y., once wrote of the interior structure of the second church built on that historic site:

"The male part of the congregation was seated in a continuous pew all along the wall, divided into 20 apartments, with a sufficient number of doors for entrance, each person having one or more seats in one or the other of these apartments. The residue of the interior of the building was for the accommodation of the female part of the congregation, who were seated on chairs."

Had His Coming and Going

A policeman on crossing duty caught a small car sneaking past his upraised arm. He jerked a thumb to command the driver to pull in to the curb, and he went across to thrash the matter out with the culprit.

A minute later he returned to his post, looking furious. A passerby asked him what was the matter.

"Matter?" he stormed. "There's an old fool about ninety years old in that car. First he tells me he didn't notice the signal, because he can't see any too well, and when I told him to get some glasses I couldn't make him hear me!"

An Old Friend

The very mean young lover approached the darling of his heart.

"Did you have any Christmas cards?" he asked.

"Yes, several," replied the young lady. "There was one I liked especially. It wasn't signed—I thought that very artistic. I think you must have sent it."

"Really," exclaimed the youth happily. "What makes you think that?"

"Well, you see," smiled the girl very sweetly, "because I remember sending it to you last Christmas."

An Old-Time Favorite

Foxgloves have long been a favorite in the old-fashioned garden. Dating back beyond the time of early European horticulture we find "Digitalis purpurea," the species usually grown, as one of the commonest English wild flowers. It has been popular in America from early Colonial days, says Nature Magazine, and is still found in the outstanding gardens of America and Europe.

Mace Not "Mere Bauble" to British Statesmen

"Take away that bauble," was Cromwell's scornful remark, referring to the mace of the house of commons, and the speaker of the house in the federal capital of Australia must be some refreshing kind of modern Cromwell. Declaring that it is only a relic of barbarism, and represents nothing relating to the crown, he ordered the Canberra mace banished to some storeroom, a fate that has struck horror to some in England. Old Subscriber there is writing to the press to say it does represent some flavor of royalty and to inquire whether a weakening of the tie with king and mother country is indicated.

Borrowing from the bundle of whipping rods and an ax head carried before certain Roman officials, the London house has long had an ornate club called a mace as part of its regalia, and the royal arms carved on it are generally held to be merely patriotic embellishment. Though given into the custody of an executive officer between sessions, it is looked upon as the peculiar symbol of the authority of the house itself, which not infrequently has been in collision with royalty. Under the commonwealth a mace was used with carven flowers and cross and globe, but it was hastily discarded after the restoration and a mace, with the old design and the initials of Charles II, "C. R." was substituted, the identical one still in use.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cactus Well Guarded Against Its Enemies

Not the shining habiliments of the knights of old, but an outward protection from a too close approach of an enemy, is the covering of the cactus, which pointedly tells the oncomer to beware.

A giant variety is seen at its best in Arizona, not far from Phoenix. It is an unparalleled spectacle. These sahuaro rear their spiked branches as high as 40 feet above the desert. Some are said to be 200 or 300 years old. They retain the perennial greenness of youth and each spring become bridelike in a burst of white blossoms. The yellow centers of the flowers mingle pleasingly with the green.

Other varieties of cacti bear other colors of blossoms. Scarlet and pink, purple and yellow emphasize the beauty of the pure white flowers of the giant trees which tower above and appear to invite and greet their colored friends below.—Exchange.

We're After Luxuries

Frequently one hears that the fight for existence grows harder each year, meaning that it is harder for men to make a living, to get the necessities of life. We do not subscribe to that idea, for never was it easier for a man to get the necessities. The fight of 90 per cent of the people is for luxuries. Almost any man can go out and make a living, get enough food and clothing and shelter so that he will not suffer. But it is the luxuries of life that we all demand and not a mere living. We want motor cars, better clothes, a better education, amusement and a certain amount of leisure time, all of which is laudable and an ambition worthy of our time.—Newcastle Times.

Tree Is Sugar Factory

Plants require the same kind of food as animals, with the important difference that the plant manufactures its own food and animals obtain theirs by browsing on plants or devouring other animals. The tree is a factory where starches and sugars are manufactured out of substances the tree finds in the earth beneath it, in the air above, and in the sunlight, says Forest and Mankind. There are just three principal groups of food for both plants and animals—carbohydrates, fats and proteins. These are all formed in the living plant, primarily from the simple sugars.

"Climax" Forests

When undisturbed by man or fire, nature works constantly toward the perpetuation of certain forest types, says Forest and Mankind. These are called climax types, for they represent the type of forest best fitted to survive in that particular place. Although this climax type changes with the region, with altitude, and often with the soil, it is the ultimate type that nature will grow in that particular environment. Even on opposite sides of the same hill we may find different types of climax forest.

Land of Roses

At Blatna, in south Bohemia, Jan Boehm has created such a wonderful rose garden that a visit to it in the early days of September has become an annual event for many visitors from Czechoslovakia, Bavaria and Austria. Blatna is a small country town, which would not in itself attract the foreigner. But as a "rose town" it can hardly be beaten. Flower parades and flower carnivals are arranged, in all of which the rose occupies the central position.

More Knowledge Superfluous

It is very difficult to discourage a book canvasser. But one of the tribe met his match when he tackled a solemn looking negro elevator attendant.

The negro listened while the canvasser enlarged on the vast stores of knowledge to be acquired from the work he was offering on the installment plan, then remarked, quietly: "'Twouldn't be no manner o' use to me, sar. I knows heaps more now dan I gets paid for."

1932 Lingerie Matches Gowns for Chic

MILADY'S LINGERIE MUST HAVE TAILORED LINES AND DELICATE COLORS, IF SHE IS TO BE ON TOP OF STYLE

BY HARRIET

LINGERIE has taken such chic lines this spring that it sometimes is hard to distinguish between dresses, negligees, pajamas and evening gowns.

The best underclothes take to fitted lines even more snugly than the best dresses and suits. And that means that they certainly are fitted! Waistlines are obsefved in their molded forms and many of the new slips and nightgowns have the high-waisted skirt effects and brassiere tops.

There are two types of things this year that are smart: those that use lace and those that don't—but both follow tailored lines. When lace is used, it is treated much like plain crepe or satin, the garments cut tailored.

Except for bridal sets, white lingerie does not head the style color chart for spring. Apricot is much more popular, there is a lot of delicate blue, very suitable under the new spring blue suits, much delicate pink in bluish shades and some green. One smart set uses white crepe with black lace, to give almost a decadent look to itself.

• • •

ONE of the cute tricks nightgowns do this year is to have a little matching bedjacket which, when slipped on, makes an ensemble that is quite like a negligee in appearance.

Some of the negligees made of the new suede lace, in delectable colors, are cut like street frocks, wrap-around, tying or fastening with crystal buttons on one side. These usually have exaggerated sleeves and may even have a swank bit of a train, just to show they're negligees.

For real lounging many American women insist on pajamas. So spring brings out some charming ones. The trick about these is to have a novelty patterned goods.

Velveteen has its place in the tailored mode. These usually are richly colored, emerald, ruby, amethyst or sapphire blue. They are made on tailored lines, usually fitted and cut comfortably.

The bridal negligee at left is of pink satin, with cute puffed sleeves and stripes of Alencon lace down the shoulders. At right is a white crepe nightgown with black net bottom, worn with a slip-on bedjacket of crepe and black lace to furnish a chic ensemble.

One of the cutest new lingerie materials is printed gingham. If you want pajama suits that you can lounge about the bedroom or go into the kitchen to get breakfast, with equal poise, then this is a good fabric.

It is a summer when there is such a world of pretties that no woman should deprive herself of something new in the line of intimate apparel. With yard goods so reasonable, most of these lovely things can even be made at home by the woman or girl with a gift for the needle.
